RICHMOND—"Pauline Frederick"

It is quite refreshing to find a really consistent story in motion pictures, but it is generally conceded that the productions of Paramount and Artcraft more nearly approach consistency than those of any other concern. This is especially true as regards "Paid in Full," the new Paramount photoplay starring Pauline Frederick which is the bill at the Richmond theatre tonight. The play is a charming one and affords Miss Frederick a powerful characterization in which her artistry never is at fault. The effect is a satisfying performance in which an excellent supporting company appears to the highest advantage.

NATION-WIDE BUILDING SOVIETS RECOGNIZED

Governors of States and Mayors of Larger Cities Meet President Today to Discuss Means of Starting a Boom in Construction.

General Strikes in Germany Imminent—Cabinet Admits Social and Economic Control of Industries by Workmen's Councils.

The Government today—with the personal participation of President Wilson—began a direct campaign for a nation-wide building boom to aid business and employment conditions.

Called by President Wilson governors of many States and mayors of the large cities of the country assembled this morning in the historic East Room of the White House to hear the counsel of the President and members of his Cabinet and determine on the best means of affording buffer employment until the nation's industries can get back to a peace time basis.

Out of these conferences which will continue probably through Wednesday, it is hoped that a definite program will be evolved for resumption of good roads and other public works construction on a large scale. Other subjects to be considered will be the validation of informal war contracts, the general financial situation, foreign and domestic trade and the peculiar needs of various sections.

President Wilson, because of the press of business since his return from France, was unable to prepare a set speech, an extemporaneous address resulting. He is, however, deeply concerned at the general business and industrial situation and feels that immediate co-operation from the States and large cities toward meeting employment demands is vital if unrest in the country is to be eased.

NEW DRY LAW

Bill for Enforcement Will Not Be Passed, Says House Leader

Congress will not enact at this session enforcement legislation for the war time prohibiiton ordered under President Wilson's proclamation, according to leaders last night. Moreover, there is a strong possibility that Congress will not be convened in special session in time to pass the legislation before July 1, the date the President's order is effective.

In discussing the situation last night Congressman Andrew J. Volstead, of Minnesota, who will be chairman of the House Judiciary Committee of the next Congress said:

"There is sufficient legislation now on our statute books to provide for the enforcement of the prohibition to become effective July 1, and scheduled to be in force until the army is demobilized. But this legislation is made up of scraps from this law and that. There is no single law which covers the case. We have prepared such a law but we cannot get it passed at this session, nor perhaps will we have an opportunity before July 1.

"If no new law is enacted there will be some humorous situations, I fear, in some of our courts when efforts are made to prosecute under the more ancient statutes. The trouble will come largely in those communities, like New York and Chicago, where prohibition is unpopular and where public officials are not anxious to go into court unless they have clear and undisputed laws."

All through the day wherever I go
All through the night how lonely it seems,
For no little hands wake me out of my dreams.

Day time or night time wherever I go
Dear little hands I miss them so.

We have lost our darling Sister,
She has bid us all adieu.

And her form is lost to view.

Oh that dear one how we loved her,

And removed her from our flock.

SUBMITS PEACE PACT

They Provide for Disarmament of Germany Down to 20 Divisions of 10,000 Men Each—Severe Restrictions on all Manufacturers.

Paris, March 3.—Marshal Foch presented Saturday to the council of the great Powers the military terms to be incorporated in the peace treaty. These will be considered Monday with the naval terms already submitted to the council.

The military terms provide for the disarmament of Germany down to 20 divisions of 10,000 men each, including 15 divisions of infantry and five of cavalry. Severe restrictions are placed on the manufacture of all classes of war materials and the military and commercial use of the airplane is limited to the minimum.

Beyond Marshal Foch's presentation of terms they were not discussed.

The naval terms now before the council provide not only for complete suppresison of Germany's submarine equipment, but also for the termination of all submarine warfare by all nations throughout the world, thus ending the use of the submarine in naval warfare.

The provision for dismantling the fortifications of Helgoland and the Kiel Canal has been made the subject of reservation by Admiral Benson, representing the United States, whereby this shall not be a precedent applicable to American canals and harbor defenses, such as Hell Gate, Cape Cod Canal and others.

The proposal for the destruction of the large German warships is approved in the report by the British and American naval authorities, but the French still make reservations against the destruction of these ships.

The Supreme Council is expected to pass on this and other naval and military subjects on Monday.

MARTIAL LAW IN MADRID

Incensed by Profiteering, People Seize Shops and Government Takes Possession.

Madrid, March 3—Martial law has been declared in Madrid and troops are patrolling the streets. Order has been restored, but some theaters have been closed.

This action was the result of rioting against profiteers, provision and butcher shops being attacked by mobs.

The government has taken possession of all bake shops.

Premier Romanones has issued a statement saying protests against provision dealers has assumed such an aspect that it was necessary to take serious precautions and that martial law had been declared so as to enable the government to work better for a settlement of pending social questions.

The trouble began Friday afternoon when attacks on bakeries and food shops occurred, principally in the suburbs, and in the evening there was a movemnt by the people which resulted in their occupation of the butcher shops. Skirmishes, with some stone throwing, occurred between the demonstrators and the police around the markets.

NOTE FROM OLD READER

Mr. George Auld, now drawing near the monagenarian milepost of life, sent the following note to this office last week:

"I enclose $3 to pay for the Gazette for 1919. Have been reading the Gazette daily since I was ten years old, making seventy-six years."

Mr. Auld has long outlived thousands who started in life with him, many of whom were life-long readers of the Gazette. But few are now in the land of the living who were subscribers to this paper before the outbreak of the war between the north and the south. The present readers are composed of another generation, who are as anxious for the paper as were their progenitors.

The Gazette was established at the close of the revolutionary war, this being shown from the minutes of the court. It was in existence in 1784, as notices to non-resident defendants were at that time ordered to be published in the Alexandria Gazette.

Like the compilers of the sacred canon, writer has followed writer, some never having seen those who preceded them.

THE PEOPLE WE KNOW

During the past year or more the population of Alexandria has changed greatly. Old residents often pass groups of persons, male and female, with whom they are unacquainted. These include numbers of foreigners. Since the location of the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation in Alexandria, and the beginning of work on the government assembling plant in this city thousands of strangers have come into our midst.

Those who have been born and reared in Alexandria often observe that they fail to recognize one out of twenty people they meet on our streets at present.

But in normal times the number of our actual acquaintances is more limited than is generally supposed, and a contemporary in speaking of this says "the average man will tell you that he knows a lot of people—and he thinks he does. He is also apt to tell you that a great many people whom he does not know know him. The latter statement is more likely to be an expression of vanity than truth. The truth is, no one of us knows a great many people—a few hundred, or a few thousand at most, and they are scattered all over the country.

"If you really want to learn just how few people you know, watch the next great assembly of citizens. Look over the crowd and note the number you do know. You will find, no matter how well acquainted you may be that you do not know one out of ten;; possibly you do not know one out of a hundred of a great audience right in your home town. If the assembly is in a neighboring city you will know precious few, and if it is an audience in a distant city you may not know anybody in it.

"We go through life knowing but a small percentage of the people with whom we come into contact. We walk down a street and are unable to tell who lives in the many houses. Only here and there, in our own neighborhoods, can we point to the house of actual acquaintances. There are few people in our city who could tell you the name of the family in every house upon his square.

"But is isn't necessary to know large numbers. If you know a few persons in several walks of life you have sufficient knowledge concerning all people—for they do not vary greatly. You yourself may think you are greatly different from all other human beings, but the truth is, there is a large class of people exactly like you."

THE SINS OF THE FATHERS

The forgiving pacifists declare it would be a crime for the unborn children of Germany to be taxed to pay for a war in the bringing on of which they had no part. But the unborn children of America will be paying, for the next hundred years, a debt which the German children's German fathers heaped upon the world.

In this connection it is observed by a contemporary that "we have the Word of God that unto the third and fourth generation the sins of the fathers shall be visited upon the children. Shall we undertake to be wiser or more merciful than God?

"We all know that in the physical life the sins of the fathers do often go down to the third and fourth generation. The very fear of such consequences doubtless helps to deter many a man from committing sin. If there were no punishment for crime, in this world or the next, there would be such a saturnalia of crime that mankind would perish from the earth.

"The fathers of Germany and the mothers as well gloried in the destruction of Belgium and France and Serbia; they gloried in the murder of innocent babies and helpless women whose bodies they fed to the sharks when they sank the Lusitania and other passenger ships; they gloried in the sacking and raping of over run countries, and now like cringing, cowardly, yellow curs they whine for a pity they never showed to others! Indeed, it is a disgrace to a flea-bitten, mangy, yellow cur to compare him with the German race

"These people and their apologists would leave the suffering of France and Belgium and Italy and Serbia and Britain and America unatoned for, and make them bear all the cost of Germany's war of lust and loot. The pacifists who take such a view are as flabby minded and morally as spineless as the German people themselves. In their own estimation, they are wiser than Almighty God and their views are worth more than His"

HOW GERMANS ARE GREETED

In spite of the fact that they return not as conquerors, but as the beaten and shattered remains of the Hun Army. Berlin still finds enough courage to decorate the troops with flowers as they pass through the city.

The Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, reproduces a picture which is going around showing the reception the defeated Huns meet in Berlin. In its comment the Record says:

"Garlanded with flowers, welcomed home as conquering heroes the German murderers, looters, rapists, who overran Belgium and France and laid waste those fair lands, are shown parading through the streets of Berlin, praised by the women who had bred such brutes and by those who would continue to breed a race of Germans. These women cared not that Belgian and French women had been outraged by the men whom they welcomed home. They cared not that Belgian and French babies had been mangled by these fiends whose hands dripped red with innocent blood. Studying this picture and these facts we can understand that there is no repentance, no sorrow, in the hearts of Germans, and until Germany does repent we should have no thought of forgiveness. The demand of civilization and of Almighty God is for punishment of such black fiends, and unless Germany be punished we shall be false to God and to man."

BOGUS HEROES

As is the case after each war, the imaginary hero is again in evidence. At the close of the war between the states numbers of men who were in the northern and southern army had dreams of hair-breadth escapes and bloody battles from which they were far removed. From 1861 to 1865 it was difficult to find a federal soldier who had not been in the first battle of Bull Run, while certain men who were south during the war recited stories so often that they believed themselves.

The "Stars and Stripes," published in France, has something to say of bogus heroes. It says:

"There have been a lot of bogus heroes in America since the army began dispatching men back to the States for sickness, wounds, training and other reasons. Every soldier who has gone back has been a hero until proved otherwise, and the temptation not to prove themselves otherwise has been too much for some.

"There is the case of the air service mechanic who went back with heart trouble. His home town newspaper printed his "diary," which recounted several stirring fights over the German lines, all imaginary. The nearest he had been to the front was Issoudun.

"There is the case of the sergeant who lectured on the Battle of Cantigny for the fourth Liberty Loan, and sold a lot of bonds, too, until he was found to have spent all his stay in France, barring traveling time, at Le Mans.

"And there is the case, just to show how hard it was not be a hero, of the major who returned and, merely obeying military regulations refused to be interviewed. As far as he had got toward gunfire and danger was a training school at Langres. Modestly declined to speak of his part in Chateau-Thierry fighting his part in Chateau-Thierry fighting over the story about him in the next morning's paper.

To date, in the eyes of the people back home, every soldier who has been in Europe has undergone the horrors of the front. Private Johnnie Jones, whose greatest hardship in this war was taps at 9:30, was pictured in his home journal and captioned: 'John Jones, of this city, now battling for freedom in the trenches.' It is going to be hard to convince the home folks that of the 2,000,000 Americans in France, half of them, through no fault of their own, of course, never got under fire."

DANCE WHILE ROME BURNS

With nation wide strikes and red revolutions reported increasing throughout Germany, Berlin is threatened with a famine. Railway communication between the capital and south and middle Germany is cut off.

Tuberculosis is striking down victims by the thousands. It is feared hundreds of thousands will be added to the already swollen list of unemployed.

The outlook is black, but Berlin goes on dancing. New dance halls are springing up like mushrooms. The people dance and dance and dance toward the edge of a precipice.

A revolution is regarded to have broken out in Wuertemberg. The situation in Bavaria is unchanged. Strikes are increasing daily in Central Germany. Under the penalty of torture and death. Bolshevist agitators in the nighborhood of Dusseldorf are forcing workers to strike. Red riot orgies are reported from Plauen, Saxony.

Three government divisions, supported by artillery, are operating in the Rhine districts. Outspoken opposition is growing in the national assembly at Weimar against the use of government troops for fighting the Spartacists.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

Franklin, Mass., Police Believe Anarchits Were Hoist by Own Petard

Franklin, Mass., March 3.—The premature explosion Friday night of dynamite, which the police believe was intended to destroy the Ray mill of the American Woolen Company, caused the death of four men, it became known today.

The police hold the theory that the men killed were carrying the explosive. The explosion occurred in the rear of the mill, damaging the twenty dwelling houses, the occupants of which suffered no serious injury.

The explosion, which was heard in a radius of fifteen miles, occurred in a swamp near a row of tenement houses occupied by mill operatives, and about a quarter of a mile from the wooln factory. For several weeks anarchistic literature has ben circulated here, according to the police, who were inclined today to connect this propaganda with the explosion.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Action Francaise, a royalist newspaper, of Paris, says that a revolutionary coup will be attempted by the Bolsheviki in France before June, possibly against individuals. The plans, it was said, included an attack upon Premier Poincare and even President Wilson.

There is a growing fear, amounting almost to panic, in some quarters in London over the tardiness of Britain's post war trade to get into its swing. One hears expressions of undisguised fear that American trade and American shipping will get such a running start that Britain will be unable ever to resume her place as the world's trade hub.

Just before the funeral of John Snowden, the colored man, who was hanged at Annapolis, Md., Friday for the murder of Lottie Brandon, a mysterious white woman declared she would rather have been Snowden than the governor of Maryland. Gov. Harrington is receiving threatening anonymous letters.

Dusseldorf, the big industrial city on the Rhine, has been captured by a small detachment of government troops. Strikes and fighting continue in other centers, with the Spartacans suffering general heavy defeats. There has been renewed fighting in Munich. Several have been killed. It is ascertained that the strikes in the Ruhr district were organized by Russian Bolshevist agitators.

A revolting tragedy occurred near Sycoline, four miles South of Leesburg, last week, when Wallace Cockerille, aged 19, shot and instantly killed his father Arthur Cockerille, aged about 50. The weapon used was a shot gun fired through a window at a range of only a few feet, and the whole top of the head of the unfortunate man was blown off.

Capt. Edward Williams, William March, Preston Williams and Harold Pryor, of Onancock, were rescued by members of the Metompkin lifeguard station late Saturday afternoon, after battling with the ocean waves and tide for many hours. The party went out to lift nets set by Capt. Williams, 8 miles from shore. While returning the engine broke down, and the boat began to drift with the tide. Ripping off a piece of his shirt, Capt. Williams finally attracted the attention of the coast guard, and a boat was sent to their rescue.

TRUE TO FIRST LOVE

Bachelor Leaves Her Fortune; She Married Twice.

Providence, R. I., March 3.—"I shall never marry another woman," Charles Wallace told the sweetheart of his boyhood, Miss Nancy Butler, when she broke off their engagement in New Bedford many years ago.

Miss Butler soon after moved to Providence, where she was twice married, being now Mrs. Nancy Irving.

A few days ago two men called on her and notified her that Wallace had died in Manchester, N. H., a wealthy bachelor, and that in his will he had made a bequest of $10,000 and his auto to the woman he had loved in his youth.

"I was a little older than Charley," she explained, "and the thought came to me that naturally a woman ages faster than a man and that the time might come when regrets might be entertained. I put the matter up to Charley as well as I could, and despite his protests the match was broken. He declared that he would never marry any other woman."

PASSES LOAN BILL

Measure Goes Through Without Amendment After All-Night Session

Washington, March 3.—The Republican Senators, after an all night session, struck their flag at 6:27 o'clock yesterday morning to President Wilson, and the Victory Bond bill was passed without amendment and with out a record vote, thus ending the attempt to club the President into calling an extra sesssion of Congress immediately or very soon after the adjournment of this session on March 4.

The Republican capitulation was a painful and protracted process, a number of their Senators, notably Penrose, Sherman, La Follette and France, holding out until the end. In the last hours there were sharp and bitter differences in their ranks, and the Capitol was filled with talk of bungling and incapable leadership. It was a period of deep disappointment and humiliation.
